FEEL LIKE GIVING UP?

Many Norway People On the Verge of Collapse.

A bad back makes you miserable all the time—
Lame every morning; sore all day.
It hurts to stoop—it hurts to straighten.

What with headache, dizzy spells, urinary weakness.
No wonder people are discouraged.

Who do not know the kidneys may be the cause of it all.
Give the weakened kidneys needful help.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.
None endorsed like Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Myrtle Payne, Norway, says: "A few years ago I was having pains across my back and kidneys. This annoyed me very much and on stooping or lifting, I felt the pains more. I found Doan's Kidney Pills were fine for this trouble. As I used them, the pains gradually lessened and soon I was practically free from the trouble. I feel that Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely worthy of my recommendation."

Soldiers' Letters

Extracts from letters written by Sergt. Alfred J. Dyer, Co. D 103 Inf. to his wife, Mrs. Maggie Dyer of Norway.

Four of our boys have got their commissions, they are Ernest Walker, Harry Twitchell, Francis and Len Carroll. Don't you think that we have a crack company? We are still at an old town in reserve excepting to move any moment. It does seem good to see Fritz going back further every day not much at one time but it all counts, they certainly leave destruction behind them.

We men have been up against some of their best and I can tell you that their courage is not what it was a year ago. I want you to keep up our courage, as now is the critical time, our courage never was any better than it is now.

We have been on the move, it has rained about all the time and I tell you dear that it is very miserable. I have no place to sleep, our blankets and clothes are wet through. I tell you this is some fun. Scott and I made a little dig-out just large enough for us to crawl in. Talk about being cramped up in the morning, but still we are happy.

Yesterday I was in the city of Verdun and visited the ruins of the Cathedral. It is a mass of ruins but not under shell fire now. We are stationed not far from here. The boys go in the trenches at night. Today I went to the commissary to buy extras for the boys. The news that we are getting now is good and if this keeps up the war cannot last long. Fritz is not making the stand he did three months ago. We have lived on our rations and had lots of beer that we captured.

Just heard from Louis, he is well, he went through the fight at St. Quentin and pulled through O. K., lucky boy as that was some hellish place.

Shortly before noon 10 o'clock Friday morning a south bound freight on the Grand Trunk railway, left the track at Deep Cut, about two and one-half miles north of Mechanic Falls. DEATH OF DAVID R. HASTINGS

David R. Hastings, a widely known business man and prominent politically, died Thursday morning at his home in Auburn. He had been in poor health for several years, but it was not generally known that his illness had reached a critical stage. During the summer he had been confined to his home at frequent intervals, but it was only during the last few days that he was unable to leave his room.

David R. Hastings was born in Bethel, sixty years ago last January, the son of Major G. A. and Dolly K. Hastings. He was educated in Gould academy and before taking up a business career, taught in that institution for four terms. But longing for a wider field of action, he turned his attention to lumbering, in which his work with a surveying party when only sixteen years of age had given him some insight. His first venture was in contracts in cutting and hauling lumber on the north side of the Androscoggin. He continued in this line of business for four years, making moderate profits with which he was content, and then he sold the entire tract to the Androscoggin water-power company of Lisbon Falls.

He then formed a partnership with Charles Locke, and the two started a lumber manufacturing plant. It was the first mill built on Wild River. The business was remarkably successful for three years, when the mill burned. Though his partner was discouraged by this occurrence, Mr. Hastings himself, with the determination which characterized all his undertakings, set about retrieving his losses and erected a spool mill.

Mr. Hastings later purchased this land and built the village of Hastings, named for the earlier proprietor, expending some $150,000 in erecting the building there. When the spruce was all gone, the mills went out of business, and Mr. Hastings purchased the whole town at a low figure. On this property the Company had built a wood alcohol factory, and this he continued to operate at a good profit. Meantime, the hard wood mill and the pulp wood business, under his direction, kept steadily growing, and the output of a single year was 10,000 cords of pulp and, besides 2000 cords of birch and maple for the Auburn Bobbin company, 1200 cords of hard wood for their own mill, and furnished 500 cords of bark.

With keen business foresight, which ultimately brought success to his enterprises, he purchased a great tract of wild land in the Belvidere and Fryburg academy grants, just before the rise of Rumford Falls with her great pulp mills, and sold spruce, hemlock, fir and poplar to the International paper company. This tract later received a large share of public attention, when it was taken over by the government for national reservations. Subsequently Mr. Hastings retired some what from active business, although, during his lifetime he did not relinquish entirely either his interest or his personal direction of his affairs.

For some years before his death, Mr. Hastings was a resident of Gilead and held offices both as selectman and postmaster there. His entrance into the political life of the State, in which he thereafter took a prominent part, began when he was elected to the board of aldermen of Auburn. In 1906 he was elected mayor of the city, but before the year had expired was chosen sheriff of Androscoggin county. At the end of his term he was re-elected. He served in both branches of the Maine Legislature, his first term being in 1911 when he represented his home city in the House. He subsequently served a second term, and was later elected to the Senate three times, being a member of that body at the last session of the Legislature.

At the time of his death he had been one of the directors of the Shoe & Leather bank of Auburn for a number of years.

Mr. Hastings married Ella J. Coffin of Gilead, who survives him, together with a son and daughter, Marshall Hastings of Bethel and Florence Hastings of Auburn. He also leaves four brothers—Thomas and William Hastings of Bethel, Moses Hastings of Lancaster, N. H., and Herbert Hastings of Roseburg, Ore., and a granddaughter, Ruth.

Mr. Hastings possessed several attributes of peculiar fitness to a public official. He was a very capable and dignified man. He was a good mixer. He dealt with all conditions of people, and speedily made friends—not only among the business men and employers of labor, but among the workmen themselves. He was always in an agreeable and cordial mood, a receptive of suggestion and withal, a very strong and clever politician, so far as vote getting and the retention of supporters was concerned.

He became in turn alderman, mayor, sheriff, State senator, as is related in the foregoing; and in all of these positions he acquitted himself with dignity and credit. In his legislative service he had as many friends among the republicans as he did among the democrats, and he never was a great partisan while in office—although he was some hustler as a candidate.

Mr. Hastings was an exceptionally able business man. He was prompt of decision, courteous to all with whom he dealt, had an eye for the larger elements of a business deal, and was considered one of the best judges of timberlands in the state, this being his special line of business.

What people call hate is often only a lump of undigested affection.

OUR SERVICE
And What it Means to You

We Have a Joint Interest in This Community
And We Wish to Join With You in Every Way to Promote the Communities' Interests.

In a sense, this community is like a farm—it pays according to the way in which it is treated.

The successful farmer co-operates with his farm.

Knowing that certain soil elements are necessary to healthy crop growth, he sees to it that these elements are maintained.

The same principle holds good in community development.

Our community is composed of two closely-related elements—town and country.

They are both essential to healthy community growth.

Neglect or mistreatment of either of them by the other affects both—it injures the whole community. Both elements must be maintained.

Accomplishing this is simply a matter of sincere co-operation among all of us in this community.

Our idea of our own part to play for community good in a business way is—

To sell only such implements as have the quality to give high grade results in the field.

To consider good performance by our implements as a part of our obligation.

To sell every implement at a fair price.

To practice the square deal towards each and every customer.

On this basis we invite the co-operation of every farmer in this community.

THE STOVE

and Furnace

Season

is Upon Us

It's going to be a long, hard Winter for those who don't attend to their stoves and furnaces right now. Good sense and conservation of fuel demand that old and worn-out heating apparatus be discarded and that one of the new, fuel-saving heaters be set up instead.

We are showing many kinds of heaters, for both wood and coal. Atlantics, Clarions, Glenwoods and Round Oaks and many others, of lesser note. We have wood and coal heaters from $3.50 to $65.00 and furnaces from $60 to $250. Examine our Glenwood Base Heater, the stove that is different. Burns either wood or coal. RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Resolutions of Respect on the death of Bro. Walter Brown, who passed to a higher life October 9, 1918.
Whereas, the Great and Supreme Ruler of the universe has in His infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our worthy and esteemed brothers, Walter M. Brown; and whereas the love and intimate relationship which we had with him the faithful discharge of his duties in this order makes it eminently fitting that we record our appreciation of him; therefore resolved, that the sudden removal of such a life from among our order leaves a vacuum and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members and friends of this organization, and will prove serious loss to this community and the public.
Resolved, that with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased, we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well.
Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy printed in the Norway Advertiser and a copy forwarded to the bereaved family.

ENDING OF WAR MEANS GREATER FOOD SAVING

Orono, Me. Nov. —Since Germany has signed an armistice with the United States and the Allies and laid down her arms, it may be presumed that the ultimate result will be a lasting peace, but the ending of the war does not mean that there will be any relaxation in the plan of food conservation according to a statement made by Federal Food Administrator Leon S. Merrill.

"It is true that the quick termination of the war will result in great changes not only in business, but in the plans of the Federal Food Administration. It is a well known fact that millions of people throughout middle Europe, Bulgaria, Turkey and in northern France and Belgium are practically upon the verge of starvation. Hundreds of thousands have already died from starvation and pestilence in the Holy Land. It is reported that one-third of the population of Lebanon has died of starvation and disease. Hundreds of villages are entirely desolated and are in dire need as a result of epidemic, prohibitive prices of food, and inability to get work. Conditions in many of the hospitals are deplorable. There are thousands of Armenian refugees in and about Damascus. So, throughout Europe we find a state of demoralization as a result of the war and America has so far risen to the height of her great opportunity and she must not now quit until the job is completed. It is a humanitarian and charitable act to continue to save food to feed these people until they can become self sustaining. New crops cannot be raised over night, and it is estimated that several million tons of foodstuffs more than was originally estimated will have to be conserved throughout this country to meet these conditions.
"The Food Administration is preparing a new message to the people to take the place of the Home Card which has been rendered obsolete by the signing of the armistice."

The Fourth Meal.

Since the conservation of sugar and all cereals is of vital importance, the Food Administration is asking that afternoon teas be discontinued until food conditions are less serious. The consumption of sandwiches, cakes and sugar, which usually accompany afternoon tea, is an unnecessary waste of foodstuffs.

Affairs at the local board rooms are rapidly coming to an end, and this department will soon pass into history. Walter Gray, chairman of the local board and his five clerks, are hurrying matters, and will leave a complete and careful record for the war historian of the future.
Alton C. Maxim's store house opposite his place of business on Skillings Avenue is nearly completed. The one story frame structure is 155x25 feet and covered with corrugated iron plate. His cereal products will be stored here. On the street end a cement block garage will be the show room for a line of automobiles for which he is agent. William D. Bishop of Norway did the carpenter work, Allie Bates and Jim Boyce of Paris handled the masonry.

The question of public conveyance between this village and Norway is a serious one. As has operated by the Paris & Norway Transfer Co. answered the purpose so far as it went, but this side stepped into the discard for being unprofitable. A horse-drawn outfit replaced the "tank" with a fairly regular schedule. Now this has been out to train trips only. Those who are employed in Norway have a problem to solve. At present walking is good, but the general outlook is not remarkably pleasing.

where refreshments are served, it believes that the hours for these functions can, and should be so regulated, that they take the place of one of the three regular meals. Indeed such a meal may well serve as a lesson in intelligent food conservation.
In France and England no meals are served after 9.30 o'clock at night, and in both countries public eating places are closed for a definite period during the afternoon. The Food Administration now asks the United States to fall into line and cut out the theater suppers, afternoon teas and all "fourth" meals; and make the banquet, club luncheon or church supper, a simple substitute for one of the three daily meals.

ENGLAND ON RATION.

Great Britain must go through another winter on scanty rations in spite of Victory over Germany, and eating houses are all strictly rationed as compared with American public eating houses.

In England no meat can be served without coupons and each Britisher can have only four coupons a week. These four coupons call for less than a pound of meat of all kinds, including fish and poultry. Bones are weighed in the portions served.

In America only a half ounce of butter can be served at a meal in a hotel. In England only a fifth of an ounce can be served to a person at a meal.

The American can have only a spoonful of sugar for his coffee, but the Britisher can have none except that which is included on his ticket. He brings that sugar to the hotel with him as the eating houses are not provided with sugar for service.

Americans serve cream in coffee if they want it, but the Britisher can have no cream. Milk is provided for coffee, or tea, but adults can have no milk. In fact milk can be served to no child more than 10 years old.

The Meat Shortage.

Although the end of the war will result in increased cereal production the meat shortage will last for years, according to latest advice received by the Food Administration.
Reports from Austria, Serbia, Poland and neighboring states show an almost total lack of meat. In Turkey only the very wealthy were able to have meat and then only at rare intervals.

The shortage of meat in Western Europe is shown by the fact that the Allies have called for millions more tons of meat this winter than they called for last winter. Breeding stocks are gone and it will take years to rebuild the herds.

INFLUENZA SUMMARY

Now that the epidemic of influenza in Maine has practically disappeared, Dr. L. D. Bristol, State Commissioner of Health and Chairman of the State Emergency Influenza Committee, has made a statement summarizing the work done in combating the disease, in the State. 15,834 cases of influenza and 457 deaths were reported to the State Department of Health from various local boards of health throughout the State.

Although a number of physicians and local boards of health have not done their duty in reporting these cases, Dr. Bristol believes that the large majority of them did conscientious work in making daily reports to the local boards and the State Department of Health.

During the epidemic, eight thousand persons have been given the influenza vaccine prepared and distributed by the laboratory of the State Department of Health, and Dr. H. E. Thompson and his assistants in the Laboratory are to be warmly commended for their prompt and efficient work in making this vaccine.

Largely through the efforts of the Emergency Influenza Committee, twenty-two Emergency Influenza Hospitals were opened in seventeen cities and towns of the State; twenty-three physicians were supplied for special service in twenty-five towns; and one hundred and twenty-nine nurses were sent to work in fifty different communities. This does not include the splendid efforts of Capt. B. F. Bradbury, Medical Aide to the Governor, previous to the appointment of the Emergency Committee.
Without the splendid cooperative efforts of various local boards of health, selectmen, Red Cross Chapters, and Public Safety Committees, and without the financial assistance of the U. S. Public Health Service, the emergency appropriation voted by Governor McKean and his Council, and the individual cities and towns concerned, a successful campaign against the epidemic would have been impossible, according to the Commissioner of Health.

"The doctors and nurses," said Dr. Bristol, "who risked their lives in caring for persons afflicted with influenza, have earned the gratitude of the public, while the nurses and physicians who actually lost their lives in this service, will ever be held in grateful remembrance."

Dr. Bristol believes that although the epidemic has subsided many communities will have a few new cases of influenza during the entire winter, and that the local agencies which have done so much in combating the disease and caring for the sick, will have an important task in giving advice and assistance to families which have been affected physically or financially by the disease.

STATE ELECTION IN THE OLD HOME TOWN

I attended town meeting or perhaps I should say "an election" in Meredith, N. H., on November 5th. It was here I cast my first vote in November 1876 for Samuel J. Tilton. He came near being president.

After a struggle for many months he was "counted out" because seven Democratic judges couldn't legally out-vote eight Republican ones.

The popular vote of nation was decidedly democratic, but the election machinery in the southern states was of such a nature as to permit a republican "count-out" and R. B. Hayes of Ohio became president defacto for four years and did little else than draw his salary.

The Meredith town house has changed since then. A new one has been built on the opposite side of the street. It is in this main convenient and is said to be self-supporting from the rent received from the stores on the ground floor. It is good enough anyhow, but somehow I don't like it as well as the old one. I don't like "this secret voting" and never did. It is the proper thing just the same and it's come to stay.

Improvement could easily be made for voting in this house. I can see no sense for the voters climbing up onto the stage and pass around among the curtains and drapery to mark and deposit the ballots. It shows off the election clerks to good advantage, but is inconvenient and a hardship to cripples and old age. It is unnecessarily so. The booths could be put on the floor and railed off and could easily be made convenient. There is plenty of room. Wonder why it was not so arranged? Probably there is a reason.

I never voted in this house. There were few people that I knew. Maybe half a dozen in a half hour. One or two that I recognized as townsmen when I was a citizen of Meredith forty-one years ago.

Sixty-three years ago last March the floor of the then new town house gave way and not too gently dumped many citizens into the basement among the rocks twelve feet below. Many were injured for life and two or more died within a short time.

With a sick and lame man limping or carrying a cane, I was pretty sure he "fell through the town house." Every body years after in talking about the great accident, came with a few inches of going through except my father, who said he was outside on the door rock when the crash came. He was the only person, I know in town, who would admit of being outside the house on that fateful day.

I understand the contractor or builder of the house was indicted for manslaughter and got tangled up in the courts, but escaped with slight punishment and a considerable loss of money. The town paid nothing to those who were injured.

Laconia then belonged to Meredith or at least that part of the present city that is on the west side of the river. The town house accident was one of the causes leading to a division of the town into the establishment of a new town. Sixty odd years ago where the City of the Lakes now is was known as Meredith Bridge. The first bank book I ever saw was issued by the Meredith Bridge Savings Bank, which is now known as the Laconia Savings Bank.

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM KENTUCKY

During September, 1918, a total of 232 new wells was completed of which 202 wells are commercially productive, indicating a successful completion of 97%. This is a remarkable accomplishment and compares favorably with the most prolific districts in the world. On October 25 last, 518 new wells were in process of drilling. For the week ending October 12, the Cumberland Pipe Line delivered to refineries 88,236 barrels of crude petroleum, or an average daily run of 12,602 barrels, each barrel of which was worth $2.60. Indications point to the production of Kentucky for the year 1918 exceeding FIVE MILLION BARRELS, a marked increase over the year 1917, and the value of the 1918 production will exceed

THIRTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

We gave notice in our last week's advertisement that the price of BOSTON-KENTUCKY Treasury shares advanced to fifteen cents. THE PRICE HAS ADVANCED exactly in accordance with our announcement and we now offer the second allotment of BOSTON-KENTUCKY Treasury Shares at FIFTEEN CENTS PER SHARE. To those who did not grasp the opportunity offered last week at Ten Cents we say

DO NOT WAIT FOR THE NEXT ADVANCE

It consists of seven large rooms and a bath, finished in oak and mahogany and is sunny and most pleasant. Their former home in Waterford has been sold to Ellsworth Kimball of Bridgton, who has moved on to it. Mr. Emerson's telephone which has been changed to the new house, is 16-24.

The town of Harrison was one of the very first in the United War Work Campaign to go over the top. The committee did splendid work under the leadership of Mrs. Howard Randall of South Harrison. The amount given to Harrison is $2,141.93, but the town easily raised $2,141.93.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tarbox, with Celia and Edward spent Sunday with her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynes, at South Waterford.

A meeting was held at Harrison village Monday, Nov. 11th and election of officers for the United War Work Campaign. The following officers were chosen:

Chairman—Joseph Pitts
Treasurer—J. H. Randall
Secretary—Mrs. J. H. Randall
Soliciting Committee—
William Joseph Pitts, Frank Bennett, J. T. Kneeland, Oliver Abbott.
Maple Ridge—Quincy Chase
North Harrison—F. O. Greene, A. P. Stanley.
South Harrison—J. H. Randall.

A very jubilant celebration of the great victory was held Monday evening, Nov. 11th. A grand parade was formed and marched through all the streets and to North Bridgton. "Kaiser Bill" was burned at the stake under the able management of Del. Lorenson. All were then invited to Odd Fellows' Hall where an oyster supper was served by Harrison's famous cook, F. C. Greene, after a prayer by Rev. J. B. Coy, giving thanks for the glorious victory and blessings for our boys.

After the parade the boys of the town repeated, Howard Poor, principal of Bridgton Academy, was introduced and his talk on the United War Work Campaign was enjoyed; also a talk by Rev. C. N. Davis was very interesting. Harrison appreciates the friendliness shown by Madam Olive Fremstad as she not only helped to make their celebration a success by her beautiful singing, but also by a very generous contribution when the pledges were passed around by Joseph Pitts, chairman. Other contributions helped to raise $900 in a short time.

Much enthusiasm and patriotism has been shown in the Victory Boy and Girl movement in town with Mrs. J. H. Randall, chairman. Lewis school, Lelia Trott teacher, held an exhibition Saturday evening which showed what an indefatigable worker and successful teacher she is. Ice cream and popcorn was sold and the proceeds given by the scholars to the United War Work Fund. Lewis school won the highest honors for raising the most money. Maple Ridge, Bertha Storey teacher, a close second; Gramma, Jessie Cooke teacher, third; Intermediate, Ethel Sweet teacher, fourth and Bolster's Mills, Minnie Ball teacher, fifth. The first four having a 100 per cent. quota.

Milan Cummings
Many hearts were saddened on Tuesday, November 12th, by the sudden news that Milan Cummings had passed to the Life Beyond. On the Saturday before he had met with an accident and was taken to the Maine General Hospital where they found it necessary to amputate all of his fingers on his right hand. The operation was quickly followed by pneumonia, causing his death.

He was the only son of the late Albert and Nellie Cummings, born at Harrison, Feb. 9th, 1873. He graduated at Bridgton Academy in 1893. After that he was a very successful teacher in the public schools in several different towns.

He was turn-key at Portland jail several years.

After his marriage to Emma Cotton of Hiram, he was in the mill business at Hiram in partnership with his father-in-law.

Besides his grief stricken wife, he leaves a mother to whom he has always been a kind and thoughtful son and who will feel her loss more deeply than words can express. He also leaves an only sister, Mrs. Frank Ward of Harrison.

Funeral services were held at his home in Hiram. It can be truthfully said that Milan Cummings could not be excelled in fidelity, love and faithfulness. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows. Burial at Hiram Village Cemetery.

The War Personnel Board of the National War Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, of the United States, has issued a call for five thousand men workers to go to France and work among the American Soldiers, notwithstanding the fact that the war is over.

The call was just issued before the Armistice was signed but with a full knowledge that the end was near. The call to the National War Council was made from France and is the best evidence that it is well understood that it will be a long time before the American Army will be demobilized and brought back home. In the call for the five thousand men the War Personnel Board says that men will be more needed over there in the future than in the past.
